Now that the fair is over let public enterprise and energy be concentrated on some other proposition which will work for Roswell's good.—Roswell Record, Oct. 2, 1903.

Allow me to suggest that the public look after the carcasses that are decaying, every spring, near the city of Roswell and surrounding country.

An Anti-vaccination society would be another thing that would work good to those who believe in clean blood to keep them from catching disease, instead of filthy vaccination and its kin.

Pure air for the lungs, pure food and water for the stomach, useful exercise for mind and body will vitalize the circulation—the river of life.

Yours for pure air and a clean country and town.
